

CHARLES A. COLLINS

Middlesex County Detective.

Saw the manager of Bornot & Co. in Philadelphia on September 25, 1922 and reported to David that package sent Bornot was opened by Mr. A. Nichols who could remember nothing about the condition of the goods and said Mrs. Hall never had any work done there before. Mr. Nichols added that a few blood stains would not show up on a woolen scarf but a report would have been made if the goods had been stained very much. Nichols never saw the scarf.

CHARLES A. COLLINS.

August 17, 1926.

Middlesex County Detective.

TESTIFIED (Page 340, et seq.):

Visited Bornot & Company in Philadelphia on September 25, 1922. Saw the Manager. Reported to David that package sent to Bornot was opened by Mr. A. Nichols who could not remember anything about the condition of the goods and that Mrs. Hall never had any work done there before. That a few blood stains would not show up on a woollen scarf, but if the goods had been stained very much a report would have been made (340-347, 352, 353).

CROSS-EXAMINATION:

Statement made to Collins made by man who never saw the scarf (354). Collins made no inquiry as to other New Brunawick people sending garments to Bornot (354-356).
